

WE NOMINATE

Pleasant Jefferson Conkwright, "master of the art of printing" and probably this country's most respected book designer, whose contributions over the past quarter-century as Typographer of Princeton University Press are being signalized by the on-going exhibition of his work in the Main Gallery of the Firestone Library. This rare "one-man show," that will remain on public display through April 15th, reflects not only Conkwright's versatility, and the painstaking care he has invented in the design of several hundred books, but also underscores how the designer approaches his "self-effacing task with the eye of the artist and the expert's reverence for the volume's content."

A past winner of the Gold Medal of the American Institute of Graphic Arts, who since 1910 has had no less than 41 of his works chosen among the "Fifty Books of the Year," the 58-year old Conkwright remains quietly unimpressed by the kudos he has earned and still aspires to do the perfect book. "To do this, Conkwright, creator of the Monticello typeset for "The Papers of Thomas Jefferson," feels it necessary "to translate the author's message into the most suitable type, in the most readable manner; quietly to interpret and help the author, but in no way to distract or to interfere with the context."

Elected to membership in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1959 in the company of artist Ben Shahn, author Joseph Wood Krutch and educator Harold Willis Dodds, this soft-spoken Princetonian is as well known in overseas publishing centers as he is in the United States. From Cambridge, England, in connection with the current exhibition, came this succinct evaluation: "Aware of contemporary developments in design on both the East and West coasts, he has evolved a style which is almost unmistakably his own. This achievement is all the more remarkable in a man who so faithfully follows the dictum that self-effacement is the etiquette of the good printer."

Conkwright, born in the Oklahoma Indian Territory town of Bristow, stills memories of the adage of "printer's ink in the blood." The son of a Southern Baptist clergyman and reared in Sapulpa, Okla., he was striking off his father's church bulletins on a small press at home before he was 12. His next publishing venture was a Boy Scout newspaper for which he accumulated limited quantities of type. In fact, at the outset there was just enough type to set and print one paragraph at a time. However, he kept gathering bits of type and, finally—at age 16—issued his first intecord as a job printer.

After gaining practical experience in both printing and engraving plants and studying at the National Academy of Commercial Art in Chicago, he rounded out his formal education at the University of Kentucky with the Class of 1928. A year later he was called to the then newly organized, and now prestigious, University of Oklahoma Press and in the mid-1930's began collecting honors for distinctive book-designs. While serving successively in the shop, proofroom, editorial offices and design department, he made time for graduate work and, in qualifying for his Oklahoma Master's Degree, completed an excellently received study of modern American printing.

For his dedication to "the greater glory of scholarship and the art of typography"; for his capacities for shaping the tangible in such ways that type and design catch the spirit of the individual volume; for the blend of "good manners, good taste and wit" that shines through his work; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

ROADS IN THE NEWS

By-Pass; East-West Link.
The problem of how to get there and back again without overloading Nassau Street this week occupied Princeton once again.

• The Township Planning Board announced that Faculty Road was essential to the community as an east-west link replacing College Road, and recommended that the Township either ask the University to dedicate it voluntarily, or take the steps necessary to convert it to a public road.

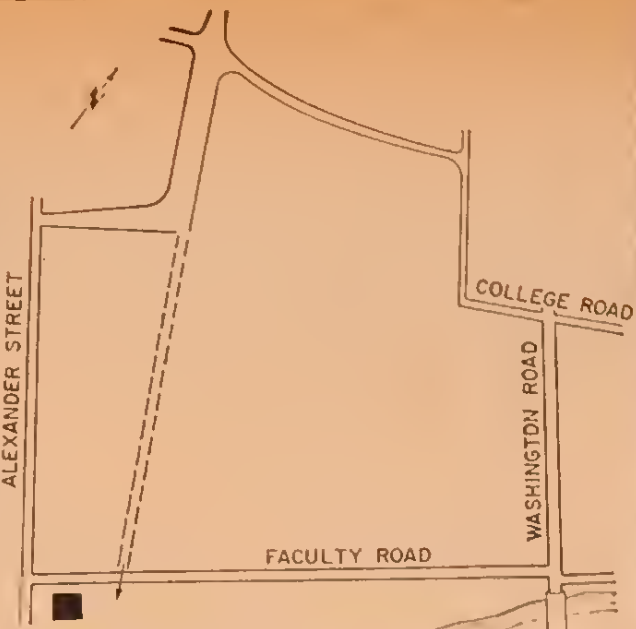

• The 206-A bypass bill, temporarily bottled in committee by the senator from Somerset County, stood a fair chance of emerging if some political maneuvering turned out to be successful. Mayor Henry S. Patterson and Edgar M. Gemmell, administrative vice-president of the University, met with the legislators involved on Tuesday.

In a detailed resolution presented Monday night to Township Committee, the Planning Board outlined the results of its intensive studies in the matter of the new railroad station, studies made with the cooperation of the University, municipal engineers and Jack M. Kendree, Township planning consultant.

WE NEED THIS ROAD: Faculty Road will be accorded the status of a position on the Township's Master Plan of Roads as "the only available replacement for College Road." Faculty as an east-west link between Alexander and Washington is shown on this map. The Township Planning Board also wants University Place put through to Faculty and so aligned that it can be extended to Route One (in direction of arrow) if necessary. The black square is the proposed new Pennsylvania Railroad station.

"The University and the community have an obligation to relieve traffic congestion on Nassau Street by participating in the establishment—as a replacement for College Road—of a parallel street as close to Nassau as possible, and within the southern part of the community," the report stated.

Such a street, the Board believes, would create a healthier central business district and thereby make it easier for Princeton's various business establishments to serve both the University and the community as a whole.

"Let's not let it happen again," the Board said, in effect, citing "the recent experience in the case of College Road and the necessity of precluding a repetition of this experience incidental to the . . . continued building and campus extension program of the University in the direction of Faculty Road."

The forthcoming closing of College Road makes Faculty Road essential as a "collector street" in the Township's road system, since it will be the municipality's only east-west connection south of Nassau, the Board states in its resolution, commenting on the fact that Borough planning consultant F. Dodd McHugh has also called attention to the need for such a link.

Another east-west road that immediately comes to mind is the proposed "loop" road in West Windsor south of Lake Carnegie, supposed to intersect Washington about a mile and a half south of Nassau. The Planning Board does not regard this as a suitable College Road alternative because it is too far from Nassau and because it will be under the jurisdiction of West Windsor, not Princeton.

If the Pennsylvania railroad station is moved to a point just south of Faculty Road, there will be even more need for an east-west artery; in fact, Faculty Road will be used much more heavily than it is now, the Board points out.

The Board wants to see University Place extended south to Faculty—an extension that should be made before the University closes off College, the Board states—and so aligned that it could be extended even farther to a junction with Route One, if required.

The right-of-way of University Place, as extended, and the proposed station should be dedicated to the Township, and the University should contribute toward construction of the extension the same amount of money it would cost to build the alternate private road that would otherwise be required. (These points are in accord with offers already made by the University.)

The University is said to be agreeable to dedicating to the Township the part of Faculty that lies between Alexander Street and the eastern part of the station parking lot.

Other recommendations in the memorandum are concerned with traffic flow in and out of the parking lot, possible modification of curbs, and so on.

By-Pass Problems. After Mayor Patterson and Mr. Gemmell met on Tuesday with Somerset County Senator William Ozzard and Assemblyman Raymond Bateman, the mayor issued a prepared statement.

"There is every indication that further study and consultation can produce this year an alignment that will be satisfactory. When this result is achieved, the necessary legislation declaring the road a freeway can be enacted promptly. We received no indication that the idea of a by-pass road is opposed."

TRACTOR TRAILER TOPPLED: Its load of limestone spilled on the roadway, a tractor trailer operated by James Ragsdale, 50, of Glassboro lies on its side after turning over on Washington Road Monday morning. The driver told investigating State Police that "something went wrong with the steering" and, that, as he tried to stop, the truck's brakes also failed. The careening vehicle mounted the curb, sheared off six of nine wooden posts supporting bridge rails over the canal and traveled some 250 feet before turning over. Mr. Ragsdale, who was issued a summons for careless driving, was taken to Princeton Hospital where he was treated and released for lacerations and a mild cerebral concussion. A passenger, Lilly May Jackson, 39, of Glassboro, was uninjured.

TOPICS Of the Town

BUDGET PASSED

By Township. After half a dozen desultory questions from two of the eight citizens who came to view the proceedings, Township Committee passed the $1,114,795 municipal budget Monday night. Total public hearing time: 38 minutes.

"Any questions?" asked Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman after the opening gavel brought only silence. "Any comments? Any praise . . . ?"

Miss Helen Fairbanks, 70 Valley Road, asked whether the new dog control program is self-supporting (answer: no) how much of the $12,000 increase in the library budget would go for planning (answer: $9,000) and why there is so much difference between sums allotted to administer welfare and actual welfare monies (partial answer, because the issue is complex: welfare is rehabilitation, as well as dole, and the state reimburses 40 percent).

Theodore Kane, Princeton-Kingston Road, asked about delinquent taxes (answer: the Township collects 95.59 percent of due taxes each year and has none outstanding beyond 1962) and whether savings and loan associations were the best places to invest escrow funds (answer: bond counsel to the Township says "yes." The municipality expects $3,000 income from interest on these investments in 1963.)

Rateables Up $6.8 Million. The new budget is 2.69 percent higher than 1962, but the amount to be raised by taxation is actually less than last year by $10,470 because rateables increased by $6,859,100. This means a reduction in the municipal tax rate by 4.7 points.

The total tax rate, including municipal, school and county, will be $2.89, itemized this way: $1.73 for schools, 63 cents for the county and 53 cents for local purposes. Last year's local purpose figure was 57 cents.

Committee heard a resolution from the Board of Health recommending extension of sewer lines to the northwest part of the Township along the Great Road and to two properties on Riverside Drive West because of the "serious health problem" posed by malfunctioning septic systems.

Following a report by Administrator Joseph R. Nini, Committee decided to study the advisability of increasing sewer connection charges and rates so that sewer costs would be covered by sewer revenues.

Dwight O. North, Random Road, and Thomas P. Cook, Princeton-Kingston Road, were named as the two new members of the expanded Open Space Commission.

Committee approved a higher salary scale for Township employees and police. Mayor Fairman said that Borough and Township police salaries were almost identical, with Lawrence Township police salaries higher than both, and Ewing and Hamilton Township salaries slightly lower.

PROGRESS REPORT

On Joint Committee. "We hope to have some recommendation from the Joint Committee on Municipal Operations — either pro or con — within the next year," stated Mayor Henry S. Patterson at his weekly press conference.

The group is scheduled to meet next Wednesday and has been meeting about once a month through the winter, the mayor said.

"We beg away from the word 'consolidation' on this committee," the mayor continued, "because we don't feel that we are working solely for consolidation. There are many other benefits to be gained from such a joint committee — coordination in planning, for example."

Mayor Patterson said that the committee is working to "sort out facts, myths, rumors and half-truths. We need facts, and there aren't enough facts yet."

The mayor, who did not campaign on a consolidation

RENAULT TOPS VOLKSWAGEN!

It's true! Many recognized automotive publications have given the new Renault R-8 the nod over Volkswagen!

We enclose an impartial report from the January edition of one of the leading Automotive Consumer Magazines!

While they ask to be unidentified . . . they clearly report . . . Renault topped Volkswagen in 10 of 14 competitive tests!

PLEASE PASS IT ON!

Thank you.

Spotlight on the

RENAULT R8

How It Compares with Volkswagen

RECENTLY we were given the opportunity to road test Renault of France's new R8 sedan on Puerto Rico's winding mountain roads and traffic-clogged streets.

The R8, senior in size and power to the familiar roll-shaped Dauphine sold in the U.S. for the past five years, has a completely new body with pleasantly squarish lines. It also has a brand new four-cylinder, rear-mounted, water-cooled engine with five main bearings, new front and rear independent suspension and disc brakes. The transmission is the only major component carried over from the Dauphine.

PM chose to compare the Renault R8 with Volkswagen because the VW's virtues (and vices) are known throughout the land. We also feel that the new R8 may be very hot competition for the VW selling at $1665.

R8 Versus VW

Ride: R8 does particularly well on average blacktop roads, although VW's torsion bars handle very rough roads nicely. Body lean on cornering is just about equal. Fore-and-aft pitching seems a bit more pronounced on VW.

Vision: Entirely in favor of R8, both front and rear. VW's windshield is smaller and its rear window too high and narrow.

Handling: Either car can be made to spin out on dry pavement, but R8's Michelin tires help it hold on longer. The VW will oversteer (i.e. eek-screw tighter in the direction turned) at lower speeds.

Brakes: R8 disc brakes operated more smoothly, will resist fade longer, proved better in stopping by a small margin.

Clutch Action: Very positive and slightly smoother on the R8. Good on VW.

Gearshifting: Still demonstrably better on the VW which has a crisper, more positive shift. But R8's shift action is so much better than the Dauphine's that owners of the latter car won't believe it possible.

Headroom: Better on VW by a considerable margin in the front seat, and by a fair margin in rear seat.

Seating Comfort: Front seats are about even. VW's front seat backs are adjustable—a plus. R8 rear seat has deeper cushions that are slightly more comfortable.

Entry-Exit Convenience: R8 leads here with four doors to VW's two. R8's rear doors are adequate.

Luggage Space: With its larger front trunk, R8 has a slight edge in capacity and a considerable advantage in convenience of loading over VW's back-of-back-seat luggage space. However, when only two passengers are aboard, the back seat of VW folds down making it a baby station wagon capable of carrying some furniture.

Noise Level: The two cars are about equal here, you must weigh the drone of R8's water-cooled engine against the clatter of VW's air-cooled plant.

Fuel Economy: It looks like a draw; both cars range from 27 to 33 miles per gallon under mixed driving conditions.

Workmanship: VW has slightly better finish on interior paintwork and plastic cloth panels, while seats are about equally good. Both cars are well assembled.

Performance: R8 has the edge here with 48 horsepower to VW's 40, although R8 has an engine of smaller cubic displacement. Top speed is 78 on R8 vs. 72 for VW. In acceleration, R8 did standing quarter mile in 20.3 seconds, VW took 23.1 seconds.

Heating and Ventilation: R8 has clear superiority in this area with fresh air ducts and a hot water heater. Unlike air-heated, unvented VW, warmth in R8 does not depend on engine speed.

platform, said that he maintained an open mind on the subject. He pointed out that today, the Borough tax rate is lower than the Township rate. "But will this always be so?" he asked. "This is the problem. A sub-committee under Charles Cornforth is examining the tax rate of the Borough and its possible future increase."

Commenting on the Housing Authority's charge that the Borough has refused to consider a project for elderly citizens, Mayor Patterson said he did not believe that the Authority as such was acting from political motives in the matter. He said that the Borough and the Authority had always had a "pleasant and close" relationship and still had, so far as he knew.

EDUCATION IS FIRST

Before Bike Enforcement. Before enforcing its new Bicycle Ordinance, scheduled to begin April 22, the Borough Police Department has nullified a three-week educational program to prepare all owners. "By April 22, ignorance should be no excuse," said Sgt. James Kopliker, in charge of the project.

The new ordinance permits the riding of bicycles on sidewalks except in restricted areas which are located mostly in the downtown area. Children under 18 who violate the ordinance will be reprimanded with a written notice to their parents from the police. Police warned that those who repeatedly violate the ordinance will be charged as juvenile delinquents.

—KLEP N. WARM

Spring was due to arrive early this Thursday (3:20 a.m.) but red vests and other forms of protection against the still-chill weather are advised.

Temperatures are likely to continue dipping below freezing during the pre-dawn hours at least until the end of this month. The trend, however, continues upward (59 was Sunday's high) and a variety of outdoor forms of recreation are about to be renewed. This weekend: sensationally mild but also probably seasonably moist.

Any person over 18 who violates the ordinance will be liable for a fine up to $25. "We intend to enforce this ordinance to the best of our ability," Sgt. Kopliker said. Copies of the new ordinance and maps showing where sidewalk riding is prohibited may be obtained at Borough Hall.

Next Wednesday, Sgt. Kopliker will visit Witherspoon School and exhibit a bicycle which has all the necessary safety equipment on it as required by the state. He will also show a film. After Witherspoon School he will visit St. Paul's March 28, Nassau Street School April 5, and Miss Fine's, April 15 and 16.

SENTENCES SUSPENDED

In Borough Court, Leonard R. Griep, 42, 30 Mercer Street, and Thomas B. Gillette, 26, 76 Clay Street, received 60-day suspended sentences to the Mercer County Workhouse Monday from Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr., for separate criminal offenses.

Griep was fined $35 after pleading not guilty to being drunk and disorderly at 66 William Street. Gillette was fined $25 for assault. Joyce Gillette, his wife, was the complainant.

In traffic court, Marshall G. Thomas, Jr., 22, 170 Jefferson Road, was fined $15 for careless driving. Arthur Benavie, 33, 56 N. Stanworth Drive, was fined $12 for an improper turn, and Darwin L. Duckworth, 20, 414 Sked Street, Pennington, $10, for driving on the sidewalk.

Raffaele Carnevale, 33, 71 Clearview Avenue, was fined $10 for failing to report that he had struck and killed a dog. He pleaded not guilty.

PANEL PLANNED

For Field Service Meeting. The Princeton Chapter of the American Field Service International Scholarships will hold its annual spring meeting on Sunday at 4 in the YM-YWCA on Avalon Place.

Featured on the program will be a panel discussion. Participants will include Miss Leonor Meyer of Argentina, who is presently studying at Princeton High School, and Miss Marie Luise Luckhardt of Germany, who is attending Miss Fine's School.

American students who have visited foreign countries through the scholarship program and who will be participating in the discussion are Miss Bonnie Grad, a senior at Miss Fine's; Miss Lynette Palmer, a senior at Princeton High, and Miss Holly Hanford. Three Princeton University students, Jeffrey Stokes, John Black and George Shenk, former AFS participants, will also be members of the panel.

Mrs. Dwight O. North, Mrs. E. O. Keizer and Mrs. William H. Walker will serve as hostesses. Donald Rugg is president of the Princeton chapter.

MORE HOMES ENTERED

As Burglary Wave Continues. Police in both the Borough and Township were forced last week to enter still more breaking and entry items in their crime dockets. Township police who hoped they had seen the end of the wave of burglaries with the arrest last week of six Rider College youths, who admitted entering a home on Lovers Lane, announced they were unable to tie them into any other entries.

News Of The THEATRES

ACTOR TURNS DIRECTOR
 For Lope de Vega, David Hooks, familiar to McCarter theatre-goers this season for his Anthony in "Julius Caesar" and his Inquisitor in "Galileo," has moved to the other side of the footlights to direct "Fuente Ovejuna." The Lope de Vega play will open at McCarter this Friday at 8:30 p.m. and will run for five performances, including one at 8:30 next Friday, March 29.

Mr. Hook's most recent assignment as director was "A Shot in the Dark," produced in Florida. Previously he had served for five years as associate director at the Antioch Shakespeare Festival, working on the complete plays of Shakespeare.

As an actor, Mr. Hooks has played McCarter in other seasons (Kent in "King Lear" and Quince in "Midsummer Night's Dream") and has appeared on Broadway as Frederic March's understudy in "Gideon" and in "The Golden Apple" and "Pride's Crossing."

He performed with the national company of "Inherit the Wind" and co-starred in "Toronto with Gwen Frangcon-Davies in "Long Day's Journey into Night."

In "Fuente Ovejuna," which will be given in English, by the way—Mr. Hooks has a play of violence, incorporating torture, fighting, death, romance and revolution as the peasants in a little Spanish town revolt against a cruel overlord. Mr. Hooks has said that he is directing the work to show to best effect the broad and sweeping portrayal of these events as Lope envisions them.

FAIL. PLANS ANNOUNCED
 For McCarter. For its seventh consecutive season of repertory, McCarter Theatre has planned a group of four classic plays, scheduled to open in mid-October with a full professional company. The plays will be "She Stoops to Conquer," Goldsmith's comedy of mode and manner in 18th century England, "Hedda Gabler," Ibsen's moving drama whose heroine has proved such a challenge to so many actresses; "The Playboy of the Western World," Synge's delightful Irish comedy with quiet seriousness behind its charm; and O'Neill's autobiographical "Long Day's Journey into Night."

McCarter's policy is to present classic drama and the representative works of great playwrights, sometimes within the framework of an overall theme, as in the present "Ladders of Ambition" series, and sometimes with a varied selection.

BACKSTAGE AT P.C.D. Sure, it's exciting to be out there behind the footlights taking all those bows, but where would the glamor be without all the hard work backstage? For the Princeton Country Day School production of "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," Toby Laughlin (left) and Aubrey Huston are on the paintbrush-and-hammer crew. The Anatole France farce will be given in the gymnasium this Friday and Saturday. (Staff Photo) tion, as in the series to be offered in the fall.

HERE THEY COME!

The "Rhinoceroses." The play that has been called "a savage commentary on the absurdity of the human condition made tolerable by self delusion" — which is to say Ionesco's "Rhinoceros" — will open on Thursday, April 4, with the Community Players producing. Curtain will go up at 8:30 in Murray Theatre.

The Ionesco play will be given again on Friday and Saturday, April 5 and 6 and the following Thursday, Friday and Saturday April 11, 12 and 13. Tickets may be obtained from the University Store or from any Community Players member. Seats are $1.50 for Thursdays and $2 for Fridays and Saturdays.

A small town is besieged by a rampaging rhinoceros one Sunday morning, and the excitement gives way to speculation as the townspeople argue about him: did he have one horn or two? Was he Asian or African?

Before long, the townspeople themselves begin to turn into rhinoceroses and at one point, a clerk named Berenger and the audience, witness the transfiguration of Berenger's best friend. The trampling of the herd becomes louder and louder and more powerful until finally Berenger alone remains, the sole member of the human community who has been able to retain his form, his integrity and his identity.

TO GIVE GIRAUDOUX

At High School. "The Enchanted," Jean Giraudoux' comedy of the occult, will be given by students of Princeton High School this Friday and Saturday at 8:15 p.m. in the school auditorium under the direction of Mrs. Linda Smith.

John Lilligow, Lynda Wagner, Donald Blumenfeld and Bill Alken will play the leading roles, supported by Elric Endersby, Ken Guilmarin, Ben Billheimer, Julia Fremont, Robert Groo, Bill White, Cathy Craig, Dorothy Jukes, Vicki Lapedes, Margo Stein, Peggy Sussman, Rebecca Young, Terry Sapience, Jim McKeever and Stanley Link.

"The Enchanted" tells of Isabel, a young lady in a French provincial town, who believes in the spirit world so strongly that she is able to summon up a genuine ghost. The ghost poses a threat to the real world, and an Inspector is called to the scene to try and change Isabel's way of thinking. He is unable to do so, but an eligible young man succeeds.

TRYOUTS COMING

For Intime. "Five Finger Exercise," Peter Shaffer's story of the bitter struggles within an English family, will be given this spring as the seasonal production of Theatre Intime.

Tryouts are being held this Wednesday and Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in Murray-Dodge Hall on campus, and are open to all. George Blanchard will direct.

IT'S NEW To Us

OUTGROWN, Not OUTWORN

Bonwit's Anyone? The first time you wear the full-length brocade evening coat with the shawl collar, wide short sleeves black satin lining and Bonwit-Teller label, you can tell all your admirers that you bought it at The Outgrown Shop for $8.

For years now, mothers have been picking up things like ice-skates and gym suits at The Outgrown Shop, perhaps not realizing how much the shop has to offer for the whole family. Stop in some day and take a look around.

The shop is in the Houghton Building on Witherspoon Street, open from 10 to 4 Monday through Friday, 10 to noon on Saturday. It is operated by volunteers for the benefit of scholarship funds at Princeton Country Day School and Miss Fine's. Consignors who take their freshly cleaned old clothing to the shop receive half of the selling price. The rest goes to the scholarships.

We hesitate, in a way, to describe the bargains available here because as you can see, everything is "one of a kind" and the brocade evening coat may have been snatched by the time you read this.

However, it's worth your time to make repeated visits because the suit or coat you are looking for is sure to come around eventually.

For some years the shop has used as its slogan, "Cut down the cost of growing up" and children's clothes are indeed the big drawing card. Here's a boy's grey suit, size 10, for $10 and a size 8 Madras jacket for $3. A pre-teen girl could wear the navy princess coat with brass buttons and emblem for $14 or the navy flannel for $6.

A row of girls' white dresses will remind mothers that graduation time is coming. Prices for these dresses, so often worn just once and then discarded, start at $2.60 for a dotted Swiss and range upward to $12 for a billowing white organza.

A very small girl, toddler classification, could go to a party in a white organdy pinafore with pink and green embroidery. It's $3. Those endearing little puffed-sleeve toddlers are about $1-$2.

On the men and boys' side, there's a $12 blue-grey suit, a brown tweed sport jacket for $8 and a man's covert topcoat

Person To Person

We were given some notes taken from a talk by a noted horseman, which we thought interesting. The notes informed us that although we have fewer horses in this country today than we had several decades ago, the horse is far from a disappearing species; that actually the number of horses in the U. S. is now on the increase, due to our increasing use of horses for pleasure. In this day of "Westerns" on T. V. you would think that horses were found in wild herds by our earliest settlers, but for some unknown reason the horse was extinct on this continent long before Columbus discovered it. When early Spanish explorers again introduced horses here the Indians were awed and frightened out of their wits by this large strange animal. It is usually the thing we know nothing about that frightens us, and in business the things we know little about are the ones that can be costly unless we deal with conscientious people whose established integrity proves they know that by serving your best interests they also serve their own. Lettuce Buy a Bag

Housewives who run a kitchen along French lines probably have one of those collapsible wire baskets used by French cooks to hold draining salad greens.

"But why use it just for lettuce?" somebody asked one morning after the drained leaves had been packed away in the refrigerator. The result of this world-shaking question is a charming shiny brass folding basket now at The Betty Wright Shop, 144 Nassau.

You can put all your eggs in this little basket. We like the idea of lining it with a bright scarf and using it for a handbag. The shop suggests folding it another way and using it as a casserole server or a fruit bowl. Bend it still another direction and it's an ivy planter or an egg-holder for Easter. It's a candy dish—for candies large enough not to slip through the mesh—and a pleasant little fake birdcage for a sunporch.

You could even use it to drain a newly-washed head of lettuce!

for $8. Rust-red linen makes a fine warm weather jacket at the cool price of $5. Slacks stacked above the rack are priced like this—$2 for charcoal flannel, $1 for gold twill.

Clothes brought to the shop must be newly cleaned or washed and in good condition, but of course they are not perfect. You may find a handsome linen blouse with a brief rust streak on the back, or a print dress that is perfectly clean but marked by a stain that dry-cleaning can't remove. In almost all cases, the flaws are minimal.

Some of the women's clothes brought to the Outgrown Shop are truly spectacular, priced originally in the hundreds, and brought down to really astonishing bargain prices. Look at an imported Italian wool suit, for example, designed and made in Florence of raspberry and black basket-weave wool with black velvet over-embroidery in a brick pattern. The skirt is straight, the jacket made with a shawl collar. Price: $35.

For warm weather, here's a beige daeron and cotton for $5 with unpressed pleats and round neck, a blue-flowered, full-skirted print with deeply scooped neck and matching blue sweater lined and collared with the same print, for $6.

Teen-agers on a slim clothing allowance find The Outgrown Shop a haven. Here's a girl's suit, size 14, for $8; navy wool skirt and box jacket with red and white print lining and bow-tied blouse. A pair of white linen shorts is $3, and a terry popover for the beach is $1.

This year, the Outgrown Shop will be open during Easter vacation for the first time. It will, however, close during the summer as usual, following a half-price sale in June.

EMBROIDERY IN THE SUN
Shoes Spring Along. Some very exciting spring and summer shoes have tripped in to the Nassau Shoe Tree on Palmer Square. We refer especially to a group of pumps with cut-out embroidery on the vamps, a delightfully feminine and provocative style. One is a natural silk straw with high heel and embroidery in apricot, apple green and yellow. Another is a creamy white with the embroidery in paler tones of pastel blue. —Continued on Page 20

SMALL TOWN LAWYER: Gregory Peck is cast as Atticus Finch, a Southern attorney who fights the growing prejudices in the minds of his children, played by Mary Badham and Phillip Alford, in "To Kill a Mockingbird," now at the Playhouse and the Prince.

ring Fernandel, will be presented by the Princeton University French Club Film Series at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at McCarter.

The great French comic portrays an actor who gives up secondary roles on stage for personal success as an imposter in real life. The film, made in 1957, is in French with English subtitles. Admission is 50 cents for University students, personnel and wives; 75 cents for the general public.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

To Kill A Mockingbird (now playing) Harper Lee's Pulitzer Prize novel has been thoughtfully transferred to the screen without the usual Hollywood changes. The almost elusive quality of nostalgia, small-town contentment is caught in the opening moments as the motherless children, played by Mary Badham and Phillip Alford, are looked after by their Negro maid, Estelle Evans. The off-screen voice of the little girl, now grown, sets the stage of yesterday.

The story concerns the significant events in a southern town during the depression '30s. Gregory Peck under-plays his role as Atticus Finch, the country lawyer who tries to bring up his young son and daughter with a true sense of human values.

He faces a crisis when he is assigned to defend a Negro accused of a crime he did not commit. White-Negro hatred

St. Paul's Banx Film

Members of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church were told at mass Sunday that the Garden Theatre was off-limits for the duration of the short subject film, "Legend of Love."

The film, described by the area manager Richard Knight as "photos of nudes in a museum in Italy," was withdrawn Monday and "Rooftops of New York," a documentary, was substituted.

Father Henry was acting upon a number of protests received on Saturday from both Catholics and non-Catholics, who had been drawn to the theatre by the favorable publicity on the feature film, "David and Lisa." Many were parents who were concerned by the short subject, which one of them described as "down-right filthy," according to a church spokesman. "We have a responsibility here," he added.

Mr. Knight, in announcing the substitution, commented, "We're back in the clear again, I hope."

is fanned to a frightening flame.

The play of emotions in the town and Peck's effort to obtain fair play for the accused are seen through the eyes of the children. The highlight of the film is reached in the courtroom scene: Peck's speech to a prejudiced jury is brilliantly done.

Remarkable performances are given by the two children. Credits also go to Ruth White, as a cantankerous old recluse; Collin Wilcox, a farm girl whose false accusations stick in her throat in the courtroom; Brock Peters, the accused Negro farm worker, and Frank Overton, as an enlightened southern sheriff. Comment: hatred and prejudice, through children's eyes.

GARDEN

David and Lisa (now playing) concerns two sensitive, emotionally disturbed adolescents. The setting is a school for disturbed children.

Two unknown young people, Keir Dullea and Janet Margolin play the leading roles. Howard Da Silva is the school head, and Clifton James is the therapist who works parlarly with Miss Margolin. Her performance is brilliant, in view of her difficult role of a young girl, practically mute, who speaks only in a child-like rhyming pattern. The boy, Dullea, is high strung, intelligent and resentful of Da Silva, the school and everyone around him. He fears the touch of a hand as liable to cause death.

The manner in which the two young people find something in common, the fashion in which the therapy gradually draws them out of their mental prison until finally they come to find understanding and a dawning love for each other, makes some of the most moving, emotionally-charged scenes in film history. There was a reason indeed why "David and Lisa" captured a first prize at the Venice Film Festival this year as the best picture by a new director. The direction was a first attempt by Paul M. Heller, erstwhile art director. Comment: brilliant first.

Topics Of The Town

In the Borough, the homes of Mrs. Helen Woodruff, 81 Cleveland Lane, and Mrs. Albert McVitty, 77 Cleveland Lane, were entered sometime over the weekend, police said. A rear door had been forced to gain entry in each case. Both homes were unoccupied at the time.

Police believe that a .38 caliber Colt automatic pistol was taken from the Woodruff home. A full box of 38 ammunition was found later in the rear yard of the McVitty home. It is still undetermined if anything else was stolen, police reported.

Sunday, Lucius Wilmerding III, 9 Russell Road, reported that the unoccupied home of his mother, Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding Jr., 27 Rosedale Road, had been entered by forcing the front door, sometime Saturday night. Earlier in the week, Miss Virginia Murray of 51 Maple Street told police that her apartment had been ransacked last Thursday. It had been left unlocked, she said.

$500 Taken. Township thieves made off with $500 in cash and a small .25 caliber Italian Beretta pistol early Friday evening from the second floor apartment of Louis Bovino, 275 Witherspoon Street. Mr. Bovino is the owner of Lou's Market, 48 Leigh Avenue. A small window pane in the front door had been broken to gain entry, police said.

Sometime Sunday night, thieves entered the Valley Road School and, once inside, ransacked from room to room. Between $80 and $85 was taken from a metal filing cabinet in the room of Norman Van Arsdalen, the athletic director. Tools and $8 were taken from the school's wood shop.

The bottom corners of Mr. Van Arsdalen's office window had been broken off, permit-

Register Your Gun

"In view of the recent burglaries in which guns have been stolen, we are urging all those who have guns to register them now, to provide us with some means of identification in the event the gun is stolen."

In making this urgent request, Township Police Chief James Campbell emphasized that his department is not interested in ownership of a gun, how it was acquired or whether the owner is entitled to use it. "No questions will be asked," he said. "All we want is some means of identifying it."

In the event owners of firearms are still reluctant to take them to police, Chief Campbell urged that those having a gun at least make written note of the following facts: name of manufacturer, serial number, caliber and length of barrel.

ling the burglars to unlock the two inside locks at either end of the window. Among the rooms visited by the thieves was the school cafeteria where an empty ice cream wrapper was found, police said.

Six bottles of liquor were taken from the home of E. T. Palmadige, 27 Lovers Lane, on March 12 by five Rider College students who were apprehended by the Township Police and charged with petty larceny. They denied being involved in a February 15th entry in the same home or in any other burglary in the Princeton area.

The youths, released on $500 bail, were scheduled to appear before Magistrate James Hill on Wednesday. None of them lives in the Princeton area.

ALFRED BILL TO SPEAK

On Stockton. One of Princeton's Stocktons, Commodore

Robert Field Stockton, a hero of the Mexican War, will be the subject of a talk to be given next Thursday by Alfred Hoyt Bill before members and friends of the Historical Society of Princeton. The meeting will be held at 8:15 p.m. in the Faculty Lounge of Firestone Library.

Mr. Bill has written a biography of the Commodore, who was a romantic figure of his era. A naval officer, United States Senator and businessman, he was also a leader in the development of canal transportation in the state and the builder of several of Princeton's historic homes.

CITIZENS TO MEET

For Mrs. Roosevelt Fund. The Citizens Committee of 100 will hold a meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Assembly Room of the First Presbyterian Church on Nassau Street.

The meeting has been called to discuss plans and policies for the proposed Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Fund. The fund concert has been scheduled for May 6 at McCarter Theatre.

Dr. Richard P. Wang, acting director of the organization, has urged that each of the committee's 100 members attend or send a representative in his place. The organization hopes to raise $100 from the meeting for support of a proposed essay contest on peace for area secondary school students. Residents are invited to attend at an admission fee of $1.

PEACE IS TOPIC

Of TV Discussion Series. The Princeton Great Decisions discussion group will meet at 8:15 p.m. next Wednesday at the YMCA. The TV program for the meeting, "Peace, What Problems and Prospects?" will be carried by Channel 13 on Monday night.

John Matthews of 85 Moore Street, discussion leader, is a staff member of the Foreign Policy Association, which sponsors the "Great Decisions" series. He urges all participants to bring their completed ballot sheets to the meeting. The session is open to the public.

GOLD COINS DISPLAYED

At First National. A collection of U.S. gold coins is on exhibit in the lobby of the drive-in branch of First National Bank, Nassau Street below Harrison Street.

The coins were ordered withdrawn from circulation in March 1933 and are a part of the private collection of the First National City Bank of New York. They range in date from 1803 to 1908.

HOW DRY I AM!

Where's a Drop to Drink? Four weeks of well-drilling at the foot of Broadmead have produced about enough water to float a bath toy.

The Princeton Water Company announced this week that, with the drill down to 400 feet, tests showed only 90 gallons per minute in the hoped-for new well. The hole will be capped and the drill rig moved to a location on Pretty Brook Road next to the Pretty Brook Tennis Club, a new site chosen by the company's two consultants, Dr. J. M. Roger DeWiest and Dr. Edward F. X. Lyden, both of the University.

A second drilling team has reached 245 feet in a new hole being dug on Princeton Research Park land. There will be no test until the role reaches the 400-foot mark.

New fillers may be installed before summer at the filter plant, increasing the plant's capacity by more than one million gallons daily. The company has also begun to develop an old well on Grover Avenue by using a process called IYNAC which stimulates the flow of water. This process will also be applied to a well on Mountain Avenue.

Final tests were held this week on the Harrison Street well field which has been shut down for several weeks because an iron bacteria growth has been causing an unpleasant taste and smell in water from this field.

TEENAGERS ARE CHARGED

With Possession of Alcohol. Sergeant Lester Anderson and Patrolman Howard Sweeney of the Township Police stopped a car on Valley Road at midnight Saturday and arrested its two teenage occupants for illegal possession of alcohol.

Marshall Hay, Jr. of Carter Road, and Thomas LeGoff, 3 Maple Terrace, Lawrenceville, both 19, appeared before Magistrate James Hill, Wednesday. Hay, the driver, was also charged with careless driving. LeGoff had previously been charged with possession of alcohol on February 21.

PLANS STUDIED

For School Addition. The Montgomery Township Board of Education has met with Norman G. Coates, its architect, to review plans for a possible addition to the present township school at the corner of Orchard and Burnt Hill Roads.

Mr. Coates had been instructed to prepare the plans for the addition under consideration. A separate building designed for the upper elementary grades is being considered as the first step in an overall construction program.

Because of the result of a referendum on the upper elementary building, the board decided to study the alternative of an addition before making a decision on the next bond issue proposal, John P. Van Zandt, president of the board, said.

The immediate cost of an addition is expected to be less than an upper elementary facility. But the board is attempting to determine whether reversing the order of building projects would be more expensive and less efficient in the long run.

CHILDREN TO PERFORM

Before Johnson Park P.T.A. The Johnson Park School P.T.A. will be entertained by a special children's program at a meeting scheduled for Friday, March 29.

A program entitled "Children At Play" will be presented by some 100 of the school's students in kindergarten through fifth grade. Suggested and developed by the children.

Time to Burn

The incinerator and sanitary landfill will be open from 8 to 3:30, Mondays through Saturdays, effective April 1. It will be closed on Sundays and the following holidays: January 1, May 30, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas.

The Princeton Operating Committee has announced that commercial vehicles using incinerator and landfill must register during the week of March 25. Only material from the Borough and Township is accepted.

the activities of the program will be presented rhythmically.

HAS SECOND THOUGHTS

Driver Reports Accident. Some 50 minutes after he had struck a parked car on Moore Street and then driven on the sidewalk on the opposite side, Gavin B. Boyd, 20, of Franklin Park, thought the better of it and decided he had better report his automotive contretemps to the Township police.

Police report that Mr. Boyd, driving on Moore late Friday, swerved to the right, hit a parked car in front of number 254, pushing it forward 29 feet into a tree, swerved left across Moore, mounted the shoulder of the roadway and traveled 27 feet on the shoulder and sidewalk before leaving the scene. Unhurt, he was issued a summons for leaving the scene of an accident and driving without a license.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

By Scout Troop 88. Boy Scout Troop 88 has scheduled a ten-mile sandwich hike to begin its spring program. The troop announced its plans for future activities at a meeting last week.

A ten-mile cook-out hike with light packs will take place on April 27 and a ten-mile hike with full equipment has been scheduled for May 19. Scoutmaster William Breeze and Harvey Hook, assistant scoutmaster, directed the program planning session.

Other participants were William Hinkson, senior patrol leader; Bruce Alexander and Joseph Hirschberg, assistant senior patrol leaders; and Joel Breeze, Bruce Hook and Michael Kerner, patrol leaders. Three new tenderfoots, Charles Ashton, Christopher Breeze and Mark Rosso, have been welcomed into the troop.

The spring program was ratified at a committee meeting attended by the following: Lewis Bain, T. Roba Webb, Edward Alexander, George Kerner, John Johnson, Edward Kern and Mr. Breeze.

ALUMNI TO MEET

At Choir College. The Westminster Choir College alumni of New Jersey, southern New York and eastern Pennsylvania will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the college chapel. The choir will present a portion of the spring tour repertoire.

Speakers will be Dr. Arlo Duba, chaplain, who will discuss "Our Common Commitment," and Dr. Edward Eicher, director of music education, whose topic is "New Frontiers." Robert Simpson, professor of voice, will direct the choir.

FOUR LOSE LICENSE

Under State Traffic Laws. Four area drivers have had their licenses suspended by the state, three for speeding. Morton Schildkraut, 62, 487 Nassau Street; Eddie H. Butler, 24, 207 Birch Avenue; and Philip W. Tatler, Jr., 37, 27 E. Delaware Avenue, Princeton, each lost his license 30 days for speeding. Anthony Ferrara, 46, 24 Markham Road, lost his license for two months on points.

Timely Assistance.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Bravos and many sincere thanks to the Princeton Borough Police for finding the very small contact lens which I lost in the Princeton Playhouse. Armed with searchlights, they very kindly and cautiously came forth with same lens (unhurt) in a very few minutes.

This calmness and friendliness in my moment of crisis was and is very appreciated. Just another reason why I love Princeton so much.

JOAN KERSENBROCK

Gentlemen, All.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I can offer Mrs. Mary M. Doerler (Town Topics' Mailbox, March 7) no solution since

I cannot understand her problem. Mrs. Doerler and I arrived on the Princeton scene at approximately the same time, but it would seem that there the similarity ends.

For three years I lived in Princeton while working for the University and for Princeton University Press. I attended University functions that ranged all the way from specialized lectures to McCarter productions to sports events.

Each semester I audited an undergraduate course and attended the precepts which required some evening hours of study in the University libraries. I, therefore, encountered many undergraduates—in and out of class, on and off campus, at all hours of day and night. Almost without exception, I found them to be gentlemen.

Princeton undergraduates may not always be perfect gentlemen, but the ones I encountered were polite, well-mannered young men who always held open doors, offered me seats, and even apologized on the few occasions they swore in my presence. I might almost complain that they treated me with too much respect. Yet they also managed to be intelligent, interesting, and a lot of fun.

I am sorry that Mrs. Doerler's acquaintance with these same young men has been so unpleasant. For my part I enjoyed my sojourn in Princeton, and I am proud of my friendship with the University—Administration, Faculty, Staff, Alumni, Graduate Students and Undergraduates.

As far as I am concerned, Princeton undergraduates are gentlemen, even if not perfect and not always. They are, after all, undergraduates. But then, I never considered that fact distasteful. Which is, perhaps, why I found them to be gentlemen.

Commends Planning Board.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The announcement of policy issued last week by the Township Planning Board—now available for study at the Public Library and Township Hall—is a welcome sign of progress toward an overall plan for the Princeton Community. Such a statement of objectives provides the necessary basis of study, discussion and agreement by the residents of the community.

We hope soon to see a public declaration of policy from planners of the Borough and the University, with similar reference to aims for the total community.

Unquestionably, the majority of Princetonians wish to retain their community, as far as possible, as a moderate-sized, residential-cultural center, with the informal, democratic and typical features that have distinguished it in the past. Residents of Princeton have learned from experience that success in this aim requires three things: professional planning, cooperation and collaboration among the planning bodies; and intelligent citizen participation. Communication and harmonious understanding between planners and residents are essential if we are to avoid disheartening defeat of all our efforts.

Now, as the planners announce their proposals, is the time for residents to study these statements, to raise questions and to express opinions.

IF YOU LIKE Town Topics, the best way to express your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

VOTE for a real REPUBLICAN FREEHOLDER!

Who understands about Somerset County affairs. Taxpayers, I need your VOTE on April 16, and you need my years of experience. I know the value of a Dollar. Have not missed a Freeholders meeting for four years. Not taking a Freeholder's position as a light matter, it is a real position to master. I studied college banking, bookkeeping and many business subjects. Can handle plans for roads and bridges for "Highway Safety." Thanks, WILBUR H. SMITH

In the next few months, it is hoped that the planners will present further details, and that responses will be made by the public.

would be worthwhile for family viewing.

It was excellent, tender, compassionate and beautifully directed. There was also a short feature on the program involving close-up shots of famous renaissance paintings. The close-ups were all on nude figures of men and women with a running commentary on the delights of "love" that was entirely satirical, farcical and base.

I must emphasize the word base. The first minute or so everyone sat in silence unable to comprehend what angle was being projected. Slowly realization came to the audience.

Here and there embarrassed laughter broke out. Occasionally there were raucous guffaws. A few people left their seats.

It became increasingly evident that besides ruining some masterpieces of art, we were witnessing the kind of suggestive travesty on "love," with very little left to the imagination, that might be shown at a "smoker." It ended.

A moment of silence followed, then boos and hissing from every part of the theatre. The atrocious display of bad taste in showing this sort of picture on the same program carrying an excellent family film was well recognized and commented on by the audience reaction.

Town Topics has in the past printed letters from concerned parents on the practice of showing preview shots of forthcoming films, during family-type programs, that flash the most distasteful scenes from films that the audience would not normally attend. Has anything been done to eliminate this practice?

The management of the theatre confirmed that it knew what the short film was like but that it had to take it on a "package deal" with "David & Lisa." This in itself is incredible! However if such outside pressure is involved, usurping freedom of choice, it need not be shown! My conversation with the management on Saturday ended with a half-promise to try to omit the picture from Monday on. The program changes on Wednesday.

Saturday morning, I contacted many of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish groups in town. All were concerned and indicated they would carry the matter further to their lay groups for discussion on what action can be taken to insure a more responsible judgment on all choices of films in our theatres where family-type programs are being featured.

How many parents are enough concerned over this threat to the minds and morals of our young people, to stay away from both theatres until a definite policy is assured?

Fair Rents Asked.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As a working girl in search of an apartment at a reasonable rent, I would like to comment on the recent discussion of apartments on North Harrison Street: both the proposal by the Housing Authority, mentioned in Mr. Strayer's letter (March 7 issue), and on the discussion by the Borough Planning Board.

It was interesting to note that 60% of the dwelling units in the Borough are apartments, but how many does the Township have? What are the rents asked? Can the average teacher, office worker, etc., really afford to pay the going rate? Many avoid it by moving out of town altogether.

Does Princeton want to be a town only of families with small children? The more children, the more school facilities needed, and the higher the tax rate. Apparently this is the case, as every indication suggests that the single working people and the elderly who don't need houses have to leave Princeton or pay more than they can really afford to remain here.

It would seem that the time has come for the governing bodies of the Borough and the Township to state their position publicly on the housing question.

COLLECTION BENEFITTED
By "Trash Can" Papers. An article in the "Princeton Alumni Weekly" appealing for documents relating to late President Woodrow Wilson literally helped rescue Wilsoniana from the trash can.

Edward Rickett, an employee at the Princeton University Press, noticed the article while preparing it for print. He recalled that 15 years ago he had seen documents originally belonging to Mr. Wilson and was just in time to prevent them from being discarded.

The rescued items will contribute to a 40-volume project entitled "The Papers of Woodrow Wilson" which will be published by The University Press. Prof. Arthur S. Link is directing the project.

Included among the documents salvaged by Mr. Rickett are a book of campaign songs and an orange and black satin-covered menu given to President Wilson by his Princeton classmates on the occasion of his inauguration. There is no clear indication of how the articles reached the University Press, where Mr. Rickett found them.

By Borough Council. Princeton Recreation Center's application for the liquor license being relinquished by Robert H. Higgins, owner of Midway Tavern, 68 Witherspoon Street, will be heard at 8 p.m. this Thursday by Borough Council. One letter of objection has been received.

Of Democratic Forum. The March meeting of the Democratic Forum will be held Tuesday evening at 8:30 at Township Hall.

Township Democratic candidate for tax collector, Mrs. Marlene Herzberg, and Township Committee candidates William M. Sloane and John R. Yost will speak briefly of their views of Township affairs. The nominating committee will report on its slate of candidates for officers during 1963-64. Balloting on the nominations will take place during the Forum's April meeting.

HOSPITAL GETS $15,000

For Care Unit. A check for $15,000 was presented last week to George W. Conover, president of the Princeton Hospital Corporation, by Mrs. Paul G. Herkert, treasurer of the Hospital Aid Committee. The check represented the full amount of the Committee's pledge to the hospital for a new intensive care unit.

The new unit is presently being remodeled from the former Pediatrics department located next to the operating suite. Mr. Conover and hospital administrator John W. Kauffman gave members of the Aid Committee a description of the monitoring system that will provide continuous and accurate measurements of the vital functions of each patient.

The Committee finances its projects from proceeds from the Hospital Aid Shop and from semi-annual rummage sales. Its spring rummage sale will be held April 22-26 at the Harrison Street Firehouse.

HAM TO BE SERVED

By Ladies Auxiliary. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Hopewell Fire Department will hold its annual spring baked ham dinner from 1 to 6, Sunday, March 31, at the firehouse.

Mrs. Jeannette Hall and Mrs. Ruth Carver will serve as the kitchen committee. Mrs. Clair Cranston and Mrs. Jelta Hall will arrange the dining room and Mrs. Josie Laird will be in charge of tickets.

green and yellow. A third is a "dyeable" ($13.95) which you will see in white with eyelet embroidery across the torso. It can be dyed any color you wish.

Jacques Levine, a new blur for Shoe Tree, presents a black crepe high-heeled pump with jet beadwork done in France. An all-year spectator. He also has a striped silk with greens and chartruse predominating, and a paisley print pump.

de Liso Deb's watered flowered silk pump is a crushed tropical garland of color, with matching pouch bag. Think of the print with a white linen sheath ($19.98, bag, $15.95 plus tax).

Patizlo comes along with the "21" heel—lower than high and higher than low—sustaining a pale bone white leather-lined pump with idg, square, plain, flat buckle and a deep instep cut. Comes in black patent, too.

Matte lustre calf in three suave tones of champagne, eafe an fall and chocolate mousse, makes a very sophisticated pump indeed, with bag to match. It also comes in shades of pale blue.

Almost the same palette of pale browns has been used in an all snede pump with a very narrow gold band around the entire edge, and as a buffer between each color, a band so narrow all you can see is the glint.

That old friend, the spectator, is almost unrecognizable in raw silk with coffee patent heel and toe, and a sly cut-out near the back of the heel. This one is $24.95, and there is a bag to match.

Another spectator is dazzling white with light navy heel and toe and red lacing between the blue and the white. It's $19.98, by de Liso.

Andrew Geller's "Protegee" is a new medium-priced line now being introduced at Shoe Tree. Look at the $16.98 "Mocro Croc," a mock lizard in milk chocolate color with dark stacked heel. Grey, too. A silver grey patent has a sliver of cut-out at the instep.

But not everything is dress-up in this shop. There's Selby's red walker (black, bone) with stacked heel and broad toe, and Sbleca's sassy pink leather flat.

Younger customers will reach for the bright red patent with its charming little stacked squashed heel ($12.95) and the black patent sling with stacked heel.

WHO'S AHEAD?

Ready for a Hat? Crowns are regally high this spring. At Betty Wright's shop, where the proprietor is not Mrs. Wright but Mrs. Glover, you will find crowns going straight up out of the hat bin.

Look at a very Spanish one in slick black straw with stiff straight broad brim and stiff high crown. There is a small tassel, to remind you of Spain.

For June, there is a bright red straw mixed with bright red velvet ribbon and a curving red brim to go above a curving red mouth, but you've got to be tall to wear it.

Smaller customers may flirt from beneath a bouquet of coronnans with a stiff cylinder of veiling. Lasses with a bun on top may wear the "Whimsy" which is a hat that fits right over the hair bun and has a stiff veil that goes on from there. Or you could wear a terribly dangerous watered silk turban if you own the cigarette holder to go with it.

Rags at Betty Wright are all-inclusive, which means Madras and leather for the young, most of whom wouldn't be caught dead in anything but Madras, to conservative black or navy calf for the grown-ups.

Rone leather, even a dazzling bone patent, is big this spring, and some bone bags are matched with "tortoise shell" handles which go well with the creamy shades in the bone.

Prices here start at $3.98 and go up to $18.98, for a Belgian linen casual matched with dark leather. Those Madras bags, kids, are $7.95.

Back on the blouse rack, the Betty Wright Shop has dressy blouses to wear with suits, or casuals to go with a skirt for warm weather. Jewel necklines and front tucks characterize one navy drip-dry blouse. Another is a warm orange popover in crepe with collarless neckline notched with a deep V. A sleeveless polkadot has a soft neck bow which can be removed if you want a collarless jewel neckline.

On the boutique shelf, there are always new little fancies, like the French basket we described a while back. Take a hostess 12 sachet wafers for which you have paid $1, or a real demi-tasse with fresh bouquet of fake flowers.

RELIGION AND RAGTIME: A well-qualified YES is the opinion of Jean Fink (left) and Pat Pennacchia, Princeton High School freshmen, to the question of whether they would approve of setting religious hymns and prayers to ragtime as a means to interest the youth of the church.

Question of the Week

Question: Princess Margaret is sponsoring a project to produce jazz hymns in which the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and hymns are set to ragtime, as a way to stimulate the interest of youth in the church. Do you approve of this sort of thing?

Where asked: Around town.

Jean Fink, 55 Patton Avenue, PHS freshman: I feel it's all right myself but, on the other hand, I can see that for some people and for some religions it would be strictly taboo. Some persons would react strongly to it.

Pat Pennacchia, 1425 Ewing Street, PHS freshman: Yes and no. I think it would be all right for the interest of youth, but certainly not for elders. Even among the young people, I think there are some who would like it and some who wouldn't. It depends on the person.

Sharon Killgallon, 19 Woodland Drive, PHS sophomore: No, because I think it's sacrilegious. Singing ragtime in church isn't the right thing to do. You go to church to learn about God, not to sing ragtime.

Steven Pearson, 39 Tyson Lane, PHS freshman: I don't believe so. I feel this sort of thing should not enter into it. I don't think it is very religious.

Louis Zbinden, Rocky Hill, Seminary student: No, I don't. Not for any conservative reasons particularly but because it is anachronistic to set a structured body of material such as the Lord's Prayer and the Creed to a form of expression that is beautiful and is appealing because it is so unstructured. Therefore, you ruin, in a real sense, the appeal of the Creed and the Lord's Prayer and, by the same token, the ragtime and the jazz loses its beauty and appeal.

Donald Chappel, Bayville, student pastor: Yes, I approve for the same reason stated in your question: I think it will appeal to the young people.

Howard Friend, Skillman, Seminary Student: Too often people ask, should we make a change merely in terms of a legalistic yes or no, whereas the crux of the matter is what is the particular situation involved. To put it negatively, I don't agree with those who think worship has to maintain its traditional patterns. In other words, our mode of worship has to be dynamic, but at the same time it has to maintain its dignity. We should feel free to try to adapt to a given situation but we should not forfeit our dignity. Perhaps the use of ragtime in religion would effectively help to meet the young people at their level, but I would not want to say flatly yes or no until a complete knowledge of the situation were known.

Andrew Byers, Robbinsville, Seminary student: I would approve of that. I feel the church needs to speak to youth today in their own language and this is perhaps one of the media by which it can be done best. In the past it's been done through the gospel hymns which were sort of a ragtime approach, and yet I think, definitely, that this is even more theologically sound. Any fear that I have is that one would lose the theological understanding and grasp only that of the jazz and ragtime.

Steve Wieting, Kingslon, Seminary student: I don't approve. Ideally, the intent is justified to put anything historical into a contemporary context. People don't think ideally. I think the ragtime would blot out the prayer and the music itself would be what was communicated and not the prayer.

Roland Hogan, Westminster Choir College, sophomore: If this is the only way they feel the interest of youth can be held in church, then it should be tried, but I believe it should be used as a last resort. All things are of God; man just distorts them. And though music is one of the chief tools God has given man, I think it is just not traditionally proper to use jazz in a church service. There is a time and a place for everything.

Kenneth White, Westminster Choir College, sophomore: It is going to be very hard to change the connotation of jazz to a religious connotation, to reach the soul of a person through the medium of jazz. I don't think it can be done.

Miss Sharon Cozza, Westminster Choir College, freshman: I really don't think it's in good taste because even though this type of thing does attract attention, I don't think it will produce the right attitude in youth. I believe there are certain things that have to remain reverent.

Miss Patricia Pierce, Westminster Choir College, junior: The use of modern jazz in religion is perfectly all right with me, but I don't think it would last. These things usually don't. It would provide interest temporarily but I don't think it would stand. If it did, I see nothing wrong with it. I

COFFEE BREAK, SET TO WORDS. A new series, "Reading with Coffee" began Friday at the Princeton Public Library and will continue for three more Fridays at 10 a.m. Gathering in the Library's pleasant third floor nook for steaming coffee, these men and women listened for an hour to David Keroyd as he read from various translations of the Bible. Subsequent readings will draw from such widely different sources as Ogden Nash, Plato and James Thurber. (Staff Photo)

ART In Princeton

MUSEUM, OLD AND NEW

Changes on the Horizon. Many people in Princeton have grown fond of the oldest buildings on campus which the years and associations have endowed with character and charm all their own.

Often the same years have outmoded them in their physical capacities. The Romanesque Art Museum of Princeton University is one of these landmarks, now doomed to be torn down and replaced by a new "complex" which will be four times as big and efficient and will house the Department of Art and Archeology, The Art Library and the Museum. In June, the doors of the old museum will close and by late summer work will commence under the direction of the firm Steinhilber, Cain and White.

In the present location, only a few of the difficulties have been lack of space, poor lighting and heat. Many of the finest collections have had to be rotated, some have lain in storage over the years, others, like the important mosaics from the Princeton Antioch "diggings" have never seen the light of day here. Brewing a cup of coffee for a weary staff very likely blows out the fuses in an elderly electrical system and the only heat in the upper galleries must rise Museum for Town and Gown. The "raison d'être" of the Museum, as the director points out, is to serve the Department of Art and Archeology, so that naturally, he must gear the programs and arrangements, primarily, toward the student courses. However, the Museum is also the museum of the people of Princeton and it is hoped that participation by the residents in Museum activities will increase when the new building opens.

Expansion in all areas is planned; there will be adequate room at last to hang the permanent collections permanently, there will be organized visits and guided tours for school children of all ages from schools in a wide radius. The Friends of the Museum will be allowed broad range for their activities such as the delightful evenings we remember with pleasure when Chamber Music concerts were held in the galleries last year. There will be changing shows and more loan exhibitions between institutions.

Incidentally, much of Princeton's Art is going on loan during the "hiatus"; one excellent Early American Primitive collection is to be studied by scholars at Williamsburg, Oberlin, and the Baltimore Museum will have a group in all fields and the Metropolitan Museum will run a special exhibition of "Princeton Drawings."

Parking problems on campus have recently been a deterrent to visitors, and this situation may or may not be

But it is worth your while to take a five minute walk to the Gymnasium or down to Baker Rink and it is no waste of time to wander into the Museum where today, for instance, you can see some of the beautiful and inspiring Impressionist paintings owned by the Museum in the first floor gallery.

The old museum is "going, going, gone." If you haven't known it, take a look before the art treasures go on loan, and when the new museum opens its doors probably in 1965, you will see the contrasts, judge the improvements and recognize with pride the distinction of the Art Collection belonging to the University and to you.

Museum Shows, Until June, there will continue to be exhibitions at the Museum, which is open to the public Monday through Friday from 10 to 4, Saturday from 10 to 12:30 and Sunday from 2 to 4. A show of "Background for Modern European Painting: Paintings and Drawings and Prints" is in the downstairs gallery; in the main gallery, an exhibition of Man Ray's work.

Much has been written about the enigmatic Man Ray, who chooses to describe himself as "a practical dreamer" working "to amuse, bewilder, annoy or to inspire reflection." He is a painter belonging to the Dada and Surrealist movements and to the school of Abstract Art; he is an experimental photographer, illustrator, cartoonist and probably a practical joker.

In the current show at the Art Museum of Princeton University, there are samples of all these phases of Man Ray expressing himself from realistic street scenes, well defined in form and color to surrealist paintings in which clouds of pure blue, purple, red, yellow and green hang fixedly in the sky. Arrangement of forms in abstract or geometric progressions contrast with the group of "Les Mains Libres" which indicate a very free hand in subject and technique. Most of these drawings pose a riddle or a "twist" such as in "Les Tours de Silence." The tiny crawling over the ancient towers and the shadows beneath are vague shapes of the condemned, the desperate and the dying who have left ghosts to seep through their prison wall.

Whose Whimsy Is That? It may or may not be yours, but among this collection of drawings, paintings, collages, chess sets and what-nots, there is a group of "Objects of My Affection." A "Silent Harp," a mousetrap, garnished with strands of rubber and oddments is called "Contraption." A framed mirror bears the title "Self Portrait." These and other gimmicks like the flat iron with its row of tacks are what are referred to as examples of Man Ray's "double-edged humor." Will you be amused, bewildered, annoyed or reflective?

think she is just trying to get them inside the front door.

Gary Bloom, Westminster Choir College, sophomore: I would say I approve if the music were not just dancing music but had a good beat and something to say and would fit with the text, be it the Creed, the Lord's Prayer or whatever.

Gay Hunt, Westminster Choir College, freshman: I have nothing against it except I think it will wear out. Why use it for interest's sake only? You can do other things. I think this culture for culture's sake alone is a useless thing; I think interest for interest's sake alone is useless, unless it is directed toward a purpose. And I don't think the purpose here will be seen. I think it is just an artificial stimulation; it would provide a very temporary, superficial interest.

Mrs. William Enders, 157 Grover Avenue, housewife: I definitely don't approve of this any more than I approve of the way they tried to jazz up a Christmas hymn a few years ago. I think there is stability in these old hymns; they have lived. I don't think anything like this would live any longer than the decade that produced it.

Christopher Shannon, 272 Hamilton Avenue: I certainly do not agree with this. As a matter of fact, it's very difficult for me to believe that Princess Margaret would be involved in such a venture. I do not feel, as I am sure the Church of England does not feel, that parts of the Mass and the hymns sung during the Mass are in such a spirit ever to be conceived of in ragtime rhythm. As a matter of fact, any sensitive youth would revolt against such a project.

Mrs. Thelma Paulantis, Darrah Lane, Lawrence Township, bookkeeper, First National Bank: No, I just don't think you should do that in a church. To me, it would seem to be irreverent.

Walter Tash, 44 Jefferson Road, Princeton High School sophomore: No, I don't feel it is right. I don't know how to put it into words but it would seem unusual to me to have it in church. A church is a religious place and jazz just doesn't fit into it.

DAILY INTEREST makes the difference!

First Trenton's DAILY INTEREST ON SAVINGS gives you more for your money!

JANUARY 1 JANUARY 15 FEBRUARY 1 FEBRUARY 15 MARCH 1 MARCH 15 APRIL 1

Here's a saver who has $500 in his savings account on January 1. He deposits $25 every two weeks until March 22, when he withdraws all but $50 from his account.

How is interest figured on your savings account? The method can be more important than the rate. Study this chart. Why this tremendous difference in interest over just one quarterly period? Because, when your savings earn DAILY INTEREST, they earn interest from the day of deposit to the day of withdrawal—not just on the low balance during the calendar quarter. And, at First Trenton, 3% interest is compounded every three months. This interest then starts earning DAILY INTEREST, too!

BOROUGH PLANS SURVEY Of Nassau Street Meters.
How long does the average shopper park on Nassau Street? Is the half-hour limit on the stores' side of the street long enough? Should it match the one-hour limit for the University side of the street?

A survey will begin "either next week or the first week in April," according to Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw. It will check on the research submitted to the Planning Board by Albridge C. Smith 3d for the Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber is urging one-hour parking on both sides of Nassau Street from Bayard Lane to Vandeventer Avenue. The Chamber made a random survey of 1500 residents and found a 2-1 response in favor of the hour limit on the 453 ballots returned.

"We feel that this is just an opinion survey," Mr. Brokaw said. "It is the opinion of people who felt inclined to answer."

The Borough will undertake a "usage survey," tabulating the actual time each car parks in front of a meter. "We think that there are some techniques that will permit us to do a survey in a very short time," Mr. Brokaw commented. "Jack Yeoman has told us the Chamber will assist in any way."

The Borough plans to ask the Chamber to help in assembling and tabulating the data.

NO MORE LETTERS

For Princeton Telephones.
The New Jersey Bell Telephone Company has announced that the conversion of telephone numbers to All-Number Calling will be completed next January for Princeton customers.

C. J. O. Woodhouse, general manager of the company's central area, announced that the changeover completion will coincide with the distribution of the 1964 Princeton directory. The conversion, involving the transformation to the two-letter, five-number system to one with seven numerals, will apply to 11,000 customers in Princeton.

The changeover is part of a nation-wide program designed to open up more exchange designations for telephone growth. Nearly 30 percent of the telephone numbers in New Jersey have been converted.

Another change will be made in the 1964 directory. For easier reading, the type will be almost 20 percent larger.

ESSO DISTRIBUTOR FETED

For 55 Years Service, Henry L. Sohl of Plainsboro, who spent 55 of his 80 years as an active distributor of Esso products, was honored by the Humble Oil & Refining Company at a luncheon held at the Forsgate Country Club.

A 55-year commemorative plaque was presented to Mr. Sohl by F. G. Kadel of Short Hills, manager of Humble's marketing operations in New Jersey. Attending were members of the Sohl family, friends and executives of the oil firm.

In making the award, Mr. Kadel said, "Considering compulsory retirement ages and that young people are older when seeking employment, few people ever again will achieve 50 years of service—let alone 55 years. Mr. Sohl, yours is a rare accomplishment! According to our records, you are probably the only man ever to achieve 55 years of service to your community, customers and friends."

In the early days as an Esso agent, Mr. Sohl drove a horse and wagon. A normal weekly route for him, he recalled, was to tour the Hightstown-Princeton-Lambertville area and return the Esso team of horses to Trenton on Saturday. Usually, he said, he was able to leave the team and wagon at prearranged stops and return nightly to his family in Trenton by trolley or train. The next morning he would return the same way and continue his route.

It was he, Mr. Sohl said, who drove the first motor truck owned by Esso which he used to tour Trenton. Mr. Sohl reported he could go on telling of his experiences but he did have one question: "Esso does make 60-year awards, doesn't it?" Esso does.

Mr. Sohl has been a Mason for 45 years and is a member of Princeton Lodge 38, the Shriners, Tall Cedars and Scottish Rite. He has distrib-

Postal Awards Given

Two clerks and one carrier have been presented certificates for improvement suggestions by the Princeton Post Office. The employees are William J. Davis and Michael E. Denshaw, clerks, and carrier Joseph Perone. Postmaster Charles F. Murray said that the awards include cash gifts.

Mr. Davis' suggestion, which has been put into effect, was a hanging sorting rack for registered mail at the Parcel Post Annex. Mr. Denshaw restored to use the rear doors of the main office, marking them for one-way traffic. Also put into operation was Mr. Perone's new system for posting and subsequent filing of bulletin board notices.

KALEN'S PLANS BRANCH

On Palmer Square. A $5 sign in a $75 frame at 73 Palmer Square West heralds the May opening of the Princeton branch of Kalen's Fine Arts, 158 S. Broad Street, Trenton. The premises were formerly occupied by the Joan Shop.

An exhibit of paintings by Decachard, young impressionist-realist, will open the Kalen Gallery. Decachard, whose work is on exhibit at modern art museums in Paris and Venice, is under contract to Kalen for the eastern part of the United States.

His paintings, collected by Frank Sinatra among others, include such landmarks as St. Peter's in Rome and the Place de la Concord. The Trenton shop now has 16 of his 30x40 canvasses on hand.

The store will deal in custom framing, restorations of paintings and frames, art supplies, as well as fine paintings and prints. Kalen's was established in Trenton in 1886.

BENTLEY PROMOTED

By McGraw-Hill, Richard T. Bentley of 115 Dodds Lane has been appointed an assistant vice-president by McGraw-Hill Book Company. He will be in charge of credit, receivables and customer services at the Hightstown offices.

Mr. Bentley, a graduate of Hofstra College, joined McGraw-Hill in 1959 as general manager of the credit and receivables department. He was formerly associated with the U.S. Gypsum Company, New Jersey Zinc Company and the Richmond Storage Warehouse & Van Company.

A LOOK AT NEXT YEAR

Hyland's Loss a Problem. No matter how good Bill Bradley becomes — and he did many things in February and March that he had not shown in December — Princeton's basketball team will have trouble repeating the past season's success if a capable replacement is not found for Art Hyland.

The Tigers' backcourt scoring potential and field generalship is about decimated by the upcoming graduation of their 1963 captain. A solid all-Ivy selection, he was a one-man gang outside the foul circle who invariably hit double figures, helped shatter zone defenses with a 48½ shooting average and ranked in the top 12 nationally with a foul shooting average of 87½.

When Princeton preferred to protect a lead, rather than shoot with the clock running out, it was Hyland who directed the freeze, dribbled the opposition silly and converted foul shots as if he were potting clay pigeons with a rifle from 18 feet out. In the playoff at Fordham, with the Ivy championship hanging in the balance, he made nine straight fouls — most of them on one-and-one situations.

Living and sleeping basketball as he does, Bill van Breda Kolff has already started to sort out his personnel for next year. Actually, he has three positions open in the Ivy champions, only Bradley and Bill Howard are sure of starting assignments next winter.

Roth a Distinct Asset. Greatest improvement during the season was shown by sophomore Don Roth, a rugged six-footer who came from far down the reserve list to earn the "sixth man" designation. More often than not, he got off the bench to play better than half the game and unlike many a player, he has no qualms about coming into action that has started without him.

Roth has good ball control and likes to rebound, but he is not enough of a scoring threat to earn a starting berth unless he is paired with someone else who can hit more frequently. Possibilities include Bob Boughan, 5-11, and Ed Steinhilber.

THE COACH HAS A "POSITION OPEN" SIGN READY: Loss by graduation of Captain Art Hyland will pose a major problem for Bill van Breda Kolff next season when Tigers step into role of favorites for 1964 Ivy title.

6-2, from this year's freshmen, although the latter would have to be converted from a forward.

Niemann Worth Watching. Another sophomore who was markedly better in March than he was in December was 6-4 Don Niemann, whose height would give the Tigers additional advantage under the boards. If he gains confidence in his shooting, he will see steadily increasing action next year.

Very possibly the pick of the freshmen is 6-2 Bob Harlow, brother of the graduating Bill. Aggressive, smart, possessed of a good shot, he may be the eventual choice to replace the older member of his family as a forward in the starting lineup.

Somewhere in the picture, there may be a "sleeper," a player who had not been counted on heavily in advance estimates of the Tigers' strength. It might be 6-6 Ken Shank, who showed well in late-season scrimmages — in his case, as in Niemann's, the additional height would be welcome.

The problem, however, is in the backcourt where Art Hyland has done so much for the past three years. He's good enough so that it may take a lot of doing just for the Tigers to repeat their performance of winning the Ivy League and compiling a 19-6 record.

WHO'S GOT THE TICKETS?

Demand Will Be Intense. If Bill van Breda Kolff has already started to mull over his starting lineup, Athletic Director Ken Fairman is likewise giving considerable thought to the problem of handling requests for 7000 tickets when only 2800 are available. And if that was the ratio this year, it will be even greater now that Bradley is an established star.

The addition of seats to the stands at either end of the court is not feasible because the collapsible feature of those now in use is ended if more rows are added at the top. To keep them in position from early December into March would eliminate two basketball courts in constant use for intramural play.

One development will probably be inability to guarantee a ticket for every season-book holder, a policy which prevailed this year. Actually, it resulted in the automatic mailing of tickets to such holders when not all of them planned to go to the games.

A reduction in the number of tickets each undergraduate may buy is inevitable. The number has been as high as 20 — to facilitate sales and eliminate long lines at the ticket windows. It may be scaled as low as four.

It is also probable that every non-league game will be put on a reserved seat basis, thus providing maximum seating capacity. The Navy game was a sellout last December, with several hundred fans denied admission in the first clear-cut indication that they had changed the name of the sport at Princeton to "Bradleyball."

For the next couple of years, as far as the dyed-in-the-wool court fan is concerned, football is going to be no more than the sport that precedes the basketball season.

WE Congratulate

BILL BRADLEY
All-American

It was the summer of 1961, and someone on the inside of Princeton athletics remarked, "If a basketball player from Missouri by the name of Bill Bradley comes here instead of Duke, he'll break the Ivy League wide open by the time he graduates."

Bradley's first season at Princeton saw the Tigers take the league title from favored Penn and defending champion Yale. This year, it wasn't the league that the picturesque Princetonian broke open, but Dillon Gym. The continuous SRO crowds had a conservatively-estimated ticket potential of 7000 per game—in contrast to the 2,800 who could be accommodated for each contest.

Bradley's drawing power lies fundamentally in his extreme ability to be graceful in a game which is so often filled with one awkward moment after another—even at the top college and professional level. Most forms of contact bring fouls, hence players go through weird gyrations seeking to avoid it. Field goal and foul shooting have no set form, and grace is generally sacrificed at the altar of any push shot, flip or jumper no matter how unorthodox, that will propel the ball through the basket.

His greatest contrast, however, is provided by the fact that at 6-5, he is essentially a "big man" in basketball—and the sport has long been over-populated with big beanpoles whose reach is adequate regardless of their ungainliness. Bradley can run, dribble, shoot and rebound with a flow of motion that has fans on both sides applauding and players assigned to guard him talking to themselves.

Of the five individual one-season scoring records at Princeton, he broke four in his first year, adding two

Ivy League marks in his specialty, foul shooting. Had he been a "gunner" instead of the complete team player that he is, other records would have come his way, too; but the difference was more than made up in the all-Ivy, all-Eastern and all-American honors that he earned because of his selflessness. Last week, he was named the best player at Pennsylvania's Palestra during the 1962-63 season, surpassing such veterans as Seton Hall's Nick Werkman, West Virginia's Rod Thorn and NYU's Barry Kramer.

Regardless of his point totals, shooting averages and nominations to mythical teams, however, Bill Bradley earned his scrapbook full of superlatives on two basic counts: he is virtual perfection as a team player, and when the going is at its toughest, so is he.

Sports In Princeton

pionships held at Dillon Pool last weekend, defeating Princeton, its nearest rival, by a 133-67 margin. In addition to two national records, both by the Elis, three university, nine meet and 12 pool marks were set.

Steve Clark, a sophomore for the Bulldogs, swam the 200-yard freestyle in 1:46.2 to break the old American record and equal his own national mark with a 0.46.8 split as he led the 400-yard freestyle relay team to a U.S. record of 3:11.4. Clark and Dick McDonough of Villanova were the meet's two triple winners.

In addition, there were three double winners, all from Princeton. John Andrews took honors in both the one and three-meter dives. Jed Graef picked up first places for the Tigers in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke events and Gardner Green added 14 points for Princeton in the 100 and 200-yard breaststroke races.

All told, Graef and Green accounted for one meet and two pool marks. Graef did the 200 in 2:00.4 for a meet record and the 100 in 0:54.4 for a pool mark. On both occasions, he managed narrow victories over Yale's Roger Goettsche.

Green picked up the other pool record with a 2:18 clocking in the 200, finishing behind Princeton in the team totals were Army with 46 points and Villanova with 39.

NEW SEASON NEARS

Lacrosse Game Next Week. Ferris Thomsen's lacrosse team, taking point blank aim at a seventh straight Ivy title, will open Princeton's spring sport season on Saturday, March 30. The Tigers will entertain Maryland in the first of half a dozen games against strong non-league opposition.

It is this annual series of battles against such powerful opponents as the Terrapins, John Hopkins and Army and Navy that rounds Thomsen's Terrors into shape for the Ivy skirmishing. So good a testing ground are these tough contests, and so able a teacher is the genial Princeton coach, that his teams have ripped off 31 consecutive victories in their own league.

Yale won the Ivy title in 1956, the year formal play began. Since then, Princeton has invariably picked up the marbles—and is likely to repeat in 1963.

Tim Callard, all Ivy in football as a guard and all-American in lacrosse as a defenseman, is this year's captain. Webb Harrison, Battle Road resident, is a fixture in the goal after having won the position last spring without prior experience in the sport.

The schedule:
March 30, Maryland.

April 6, Johns Hopkins at Baltimore; 13, Navy; 20, Army at West Point; 27, Philadelphia Lacrosse Club.

May 1, Pennsylvania* at Philadelphia; 4, Harvard*; 11, Yale* at New Haven; 15, Rutgers; 18, Dartmouth*; 25, Cornell* at Ithaca.

*Ivy League game.

TIGER NINE HOPEFUL

Of Topping .500 Mark. Unable to achieve a truly successful season in the last decade, Princeton's baseball team is looking to sophomore strength to help move it upward this spring. It is exactly ten years since the Tigers last won the Eastern League championship, and much of the time since then has been spent in second division.

Last year, for example, they had a won-lost percentage of .333 (7 out of 21) and could take but two of their nine league games. The year before was a shade better—they broke exactly even in 23 games—11 victories, 11 defeats and a tie. In the league, they topped .500 with a 5-4 mark.

The 1963 season will open April 2 when the Tigers head for Philadelphia to meet Temple. Two days later, they face Fordham at Clarke Field in the first of five games they will play here before Army comes in to open the league campaign on Saturday, April 13.

Strength down the middle, from catcher to centerfield, was what the Tigers were missing last year. Indications are that they may be stronger at the battery positions this season; if so, the outlook will be considerably brighter.

Emerson Dickman, one-time Boston Red Sox hurler who coached the Tigers to three first-place finishes a dozen years ago, has been working with the pitchers for the past three weeks in an effort to bolster the team in this vital department. He once commented that "pitching is 85% of a college team's strength in baseball."

The schedule:

April 2, Temple at Philadelphia; 4, Fordham; 5, Maine; 6, Colgate; 9, Seton Hall; 10, Villanova at Villanova; 12, New Hampshire; 13, Army*; 16, Rutgers at New Brunswick; 19, Brown*; 22, New York University; 24, Columbia*; 27, Cornell* at Ithaca; 30, Pennsylvania*.

May 3, Rutgers; 4, Harvard*; 7, Navy* at Annapolis; 11, Yale* at New Haven; 15, Manhattan; 18, Dartmouth* at Hanover; 23, Trenton State Teachers.

June 1, Rider at Lawrenceville; 5, Lafayette; 8, Yale at New Haven; 15, Yale.

*Eastern League game.

TOP MAN: Belief that Billy Hill of Princeton was the Ivy League's most active goalie was confirmed by final statistics for the season, which show his 358 saves were tops for the year. He stopped 90.2% of all shots taken at him — best average in the Ivy League for a netminder playing every game.

Princeton High School baseball and track teams have been released by Joseph Jingo, Director of Athletics.

The baseball team, coached by Harry Zoll, will open its season April 5 against newcomer Cathedral High School. The Little Tigers' first home contest will be April 10 when they play host to Steinert. Coach Jerry Groninger's track squad will open its season April 5 at home, meeting Steinert.

The 19 contests scheduled for the baseball team are two more than were listed in 1962. In addition to Cathedral, Franklin and Notre Dame are newcomers among PHS opponents. Last year, the Little Tigers, hampered by a lack of adequate pitching, won only four of 14 outings. Three of many games they had rained out were never replayed.

Cathedral also pops up on the PHS track schedule for the first time, increasing the number of Princeton dual meets from six to seven. In addition, the cindermen will participate in several tournaments and relays, among them the Bridgeton Relays, Penn Relays, Mercer County Meet, Long Branch Relays, New Brunswick Invitational, Central Jersey Meet and the State Meet. Like the baseball team, the track squad found the going on the rough side in 1962, as it won only two dual meets for Groninger in his first year as head coach.

The 1963 baseball schedule: April 5, Cathedral, away; 9, Ewing, away; 10, Steinert; 17, B.M.I.; 19, Franklin, away; 20, Lawrenceville, away; 25, Trenton High; 26, Notre Dame, away; 30, Cathedral; May 3, Ewing; 7, Hunterdon Central, away; 9, Freehold, away; 10, Franklin; 14, Steinert, away; 17, Hunterdon Central; 21, Notre Dame; 23, Trenton High, away; 24, Somerville, and 28, Hamilton.

SANNINO A.C. ADVANCES

In Edison Tournament. Sannino A.C. shot its way into the semi-final round of the Edison Gold Medal Invitational Basketball Tournament with a decisive 112-63 victory Saturday night over the Bay Shore Red Wings of Asbury Park. Earlier in the week in the opening round of play, Sannino had defeated Reinfeld Realty, 100-87.

Clicking on a fast-break offense with the precision of a computer, Bill Stryker, Dick Cooper and Larry Ivan combined for 36 of the 50 points Sannino scored in the first half to lead the attack. Midway through the second half, the contest was in danger of becoming a rout, as Sannino pulled away to a 34-point lead.

Larry Ivan was high for Sannino with 25 points. Six other Sannino players, Colin Leitch, Carl Belz, Tom Perks, Bob Kehoe, Cooper and Stryker, also hit double figures.

In the Reinfeld game, Cooper claimed high scoring honors with 26, hitting on long jump shots and driving layups. He was also credited with 13 rebounds. Larry Ivan sank 20 of his 21 points in the first half to power Sannino to a 53-37 halftime margin.

The Intercollegiate, under the direction of John Conroy, tennis coach at Princeton, are expected to attract many of the nation's best players. The summer session of the community program will begin on June 24 and continue through July and August.

Instructors in the sessions, in addition to Mr. Conroy, are Miss Eve Kraft, director; Joseph Diefenbach, instructor of physical education of Township schools; William Humes, tennis coach at Princeton High School; William Summers, freshman tennis coach at Princeton University; and Norman Van Arsdalen, director of physical education of Township Schools.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT SET
For School Players in County. An area Tennis Championship for boys and girls in Mercer County high schools will be held for the first time this spring.

The new tourney, sponsored by the Mercer County Citizens' Advisory Tennis Committee and the Mercer County Park Commission, will be conducted on an individual basis with no team titles involved. Team competition will be held in the future.

The boys' matches will be held at Rider College June 7-8; the girls', May 24-25, at the Cadwallader Park courts. Entries must be submitted by the athletic directors of the county high schools. Each school will be limited to two entries in the singles and two in the doubles. Trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each division.

Mrs. Eve Kraft of Princeton and Bernard Forer, Trenton High school tennis coach, have been named co-chairmen of the tournament by Richard J. Coffee, president of the newly-formed Park Commission. Mrs. Kraft has been one of the prime movers in the Junior Development Program, sponsored by the U.S. Tennis Association.

Three schools outside Mercer County — Hacketts-town, Emerson and East Paterson — have been dropped from Princeton High School's 1963 football schedule, while two newcomers — Somerville and Hunterdon Central — have been added.

Seven contests, one less than last year, on the schedule released by Athletic Director Joseph Jingoli. The third Saturday in November is open, but Jingoli reports he is hoping to fill the date by the time the season starts.

Again this year, all Princeton High games will be played on Saturday. The team will hold a pre-season scrimmage against Notre Dame here on September 14 and against Freehold on the 18th.

The 1963 schedule: Sept. 28, North Plainfield, away; Oct. 5, Steiner, 12, Hunterdon Central; 19, Trenton High, away; 26, Ewing, away; Nov. 2, Somerville; 9, Hamilton; 16, open.

ahead of Mike Zeccola. Bill Rodefeld and Al Hibbard each had a 212 score for second place in the single-game category. Other 200-plus contests were recorded by Joe Ruberto, 208; Baldino, 207; Basile, 205; and Zeccola and Joe Trani, 202 each.

In the Tri-County Firemen's League, Princeton Number One took two of three games and widened its lead over Kingston to 14 points. The leaders have a 50-36 margin over the second place team and are ahead of Mercer Number Three and the Princeton Junction Volunteers, deadlocked for third, by 15 points.

Lawrenceville and Rocky Hill are tied for fifth with 34 points apiece, two ahead of Dutch Neck and Hook and Ladder H. John Donaldson's 193 was the top individual effort, three pins better than Marty Tatum's 195 and six more than Caddy Cashill's 192.

Sportsmen Number Two and Edwards shared the Industrial League lead with 30 points apiece, two points ahead of Maul Electric and Campus Taxi. Jugtown and Sportsmen Number One were tied for sixth with 26 points each.

Bill Bathie captured single-game honors with a 235 contest after two 157 scores but couldn't equal his practice scores. Immediately after official league competition, he rolled games of 289 and 214 for a "series" of 738. Jim Kahny had a 231 game for the second high score in the league.

He was followed by Fred Procaccini, 221 and 210; Bill Penelli, 220; Howard McWhorter, 219 and 210; Bucky Cupples, 210; Val Ranallo, 209; Bill Murphy, 203; Jake Bartolino, 203 and 200; and John Bryan, 200.

A three-game sweep for the Princeton Elks advanced them into first place in the Industrial League. They have 24-22 edge over both the Reformers and Para Lab.

George Ireland accounted for the top single game with a 217 score. Others to surpass the 200 mark were Ed Hughes, 206; Bob King, 204; Norm Luck and Nick Sculterati, 203 each. Val Ranallo rolled an even 200 game.

The English Shop maintained its four-point lead in the Women's Industrial League over Jefferson Plumbing as both teams won three straight. In third place with 21 points, 11 out of first, was Decker's Dairy.

Betty Frazee registered a 200 score for the high game of the week. She was followed by Sara Rose, 193; Lillian Burroughs, 183; Ann Amalitano, 182; Dot Wheeler, 169; and Gil DeVido, 155.

Grover Lamber remained two points in front of Community Liquor with both teams winning two of three contests. Aversano Construction was three points off the pace and Princeton Inn dropped four points behind the leaders.

Charles Perpetua Jr. led the individual scorers with a 215 game. Hal Frazee rolled a 211, Sheldon Zahel a 207, Carl Harper a 206 and Dick Fowler a 202.

SEEGER TO SING

In Rutgers Concert. Pete
Seeger, folksinger and songwriter, will sing in the Rutgers gymnasium on Friday, April 5, at 8:30 p.m., under the auspices of the Liberal Forum, a student group at Rutgers University.

Soon after he began his career 15 years ago, Seeger founded The Weavers, a group which has been credited with starting the current wave of interest in folk music in the United States. In addition to working with The Weavers, Seeger has performed widely as a soloist in this country
Great Britain and Canada.

He has recorded more than 50 albums, has edited folk songbooks and magazines, made films and written, or collaborated, on dozens of songs including "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine," "Where Have All the Flowers Gone?" and "If I Had a Hammer."

Never Underestimate the Power...

Champagne was served by Dr. Peter Putnam to his fellow trustees when the 12 members of the Chapin School Board of Trustees met on Tuesday.

The occasion? The Chapin School basketball team beat Princeton Country Day, 37-31, in a surprising upset on March 13 in the P.C.D. gym. At least, it was surprising to P.C.D.

Not only is Chapin kind of a small school (12 boys in the seventh grade, eight in the eighth, not counting the girls) but it has only had a gymnasium for about a year.

At mid-term in 1961-62, when the new gym was finished, Dr. Putnam looked it over with pride and told the trustees he would produce champagne for all if Chapin ever beat P.C.D. It seemed like a safe bet...

But this year, Sherwood Smith (who had taught at P.C.D.) joined the Chapin staff as coach. Choosing carefully from the 20 boys at his disposal, he put together a basketball team. A friend who had been All American (football, but still...) helped with the coaching. The boys and the coaches worked hard, even on Saturdays.

Came the day of the big game... and victory. Came the Board of Trustees meeting... champagne.

It is reported that after the game, a young P.C.D. player, nursing the bruises of defeat, came up to a Chapin victor, peered at him with hurt disillusion and said, "I thought Chapin's was a girls' school!"

Tickets for the Seeger concert at $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3, are for sale at the Rivoli Music Shop, 407 George Street,
the Douglass Student Co-op, 136 George Street, both in New Brunswick, or by check with stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Rutgers Liberal Forum, Box 632, Rutgers University. Information may be obtained by calling Kilmer 5-4739 or CHarter 7-4487.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

nesday at the home of Mr. and view Drive.

Kneeder, alto; Rosemary Russell and Robert Lincoln, pianists; David Wells, cellist, and

News Of The CHURCHES

FOR PARENTS ONLY

(Another in a series of brief articles directed to all concerned parents. Today's author is the Rev. George Aase, pastor of Bunker Hill Lutheran Church, Griggstown. He writes on "The Vital Link Between Church and Home.")

Joshua, the leader of the Israelites after the death of Moses, made a great declaration to his people that he and his house would serve the Lord. Not only is it the responsibility of the homemaker to provide for the basic material needs of his home but he is also responsible to offer, and not prevent, the spiritual needs of his household. Many a family is disciplined in all of the activities that are involved in the daily routine but fails in any discipline in the spiritual. We must all admit that God receives the leftover time, energy, interest and support in many a home.

Attending to the spiritual needs of my house is not only nice and good, but a must. Life itself is but a mere vapour that appears for a little while and then quickly vanishes. Life must consist in more than food and raiment, which in themselves offer no real satisfaction and lasting joy.

All the blessings of heaven are connected with the Lord Jesus Christ. I think that peace with God and a hope of eternal life are more important than all the other needs of my home, yet the spiritual takes last place—if any place at all.

A man may say that he does not need the church and that the church is only for show and full of hypocrites. Philemon had a church in his home but that was because there was no established church. But we should all have a church in our home, for God is to be the head of our home.

Paul also writes that we should not forsake the assembling of ourselves together. Faith comes by hearing and hearing by the Word of God. The responsibility of our church is to preach the Word of God in sincerity and truth, with the prayer that the many who hear will respond to the call of God. The church must be careful not to merely add one more social activity to the busy social schedule our people already have. It is true however, that when a man sees the mission of the church and the need for fellowship with the believers, many of his social activities are found in the church.

Interest in Church Needed. Why must we admonish people to attend church regularly? Perhaps it is a lack of interest.

Jesus said, "Where your treasure is there will be your heart also." If we are interested in an activity or hobby, we will be at it as often as possible.

Why isn't man's heart naturally in the church or the things of God? We know, according to the Scriptures and by the experiences of our own hearts, that man by nature does not know God or have a desire to come to Him. The Holy Spirit must call him and enlighten him and do the work of regeneration in his heart.

But I also wonder if we, as a church, are doing our job to interest people in the church.

The Rev. George Aase

Methods have been used to attract families to church but then we are caught in a trap where we must use all kinds of programs to keep them. The Lord Jesus Himself is to be the Great Attraction for He said, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto myself."

What Kind Atmosphere? Do our people meet the uplifted Christ in our churches? What kind of an atmosphere do we have in our churches? Are the young people inspired by our strong faith and interest in the spiritual?

Do they find a church that believes in the power of prayer and in the power of the Gospel? Does our praise take a hold of both young and old so that they are warmed by the atmosphere in our church and thus become more and more interested?

A healthy church life will make for a healthy home life. The Word and fellowship will do great things for all in the family. May each one of us say with Joshua, "We will serve the Lord."

GROUND-BREAKING SET

At Hopewell Methodist. Ground-breaking ceremonies for a new Hopewell Methodist Church will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday. The red brick, colonial-style building will be located on Blackwell Avenue, adjacent to the present church. It is expected to be completed and furnished at a cost of about $90,000 in about six months.

According to the pastor, the Rev. Edward Thorn, the present building, constructed in 1896, will be used for church school classes and as a fellowship hall. A wing will be added to the new building sometime in the future to house the Sunday school sessions. The new sanctuary will have a capacity of 244 worshippers.

Daniel Carter is chairman of the building committee which raised $53,000 in a "Church Building Crusade" last spring. Committee members are Frank Holcombe, Graham Benson, Edward Blackwell, Mrs. Robert Holcombe, Mrs. Orville Carhuss, Theodore Lowe and the pastor.

The building was designed by Albert and Thomas of Pennsauken. Harry Bloor of Lawrenceville is the heating contractor.

BULLETIN NOTES

$1000 For Trinity. A gift of slightly more than $1,000 has been sent to fire-stricken Trinity Church by the membership of First Presbyterian Church. "The contribution lends substance to our good wishes," notes the First Church Weekly.

Roast Beef Dinner. The Women's Guild for Christian Service, Blawenburg Reformed

Church, will serve a roast beef dinner from 5 to 8 p.m. this Saturday in the church house. Mrs. Enos Parsell and Mrs. Robert Moore are co-chairmen. Tickets are $2.25 for adults; $1.25 for children.

Church Historians. The American Society of Church History will meet this Friday and Saturday at Princeton Theological Seminary. Dr. James H. Nichols, professor of modern European church history at the seminary, is in charge of arrangements. Among those presenting papers are Dr. Lefferts A. Loetscher, professor of American church history at the seminary and immediate past president of the Society, and Dr. Horton Davies of Princeton University.

the trees will remain. The soil is rich, the terrain gently rolling, the elevation one of the highest in the state. Next door to the Green Acres Golf Course. An elementary school right on the grounds. A mile to Lawrenceville Shopping Center. Five minutes from Princeton and Trenton.

This perfect site attracted one of the finest custom home builders of Princeton. He is building these 33 homes with the quality and luxury features that are his trademark.
